Fraternity between Brothers and Sisters: Pope Francis has written his third Encyclical. It is called “Fraternity between Brothers and Sisters” He takes this title from the works of St Francis. St Francis asks his followers to live a way of life marked by the flavour of the Gospel. He calls on us for a love that transcends the barriers of geography and distance, and declares blessed all those who love their brothers and sisters “as much when he or she is far away from him as when he is with him”. In his simple and direct way, St Francis expressed the essence of a fraternal openness that allows us to acknowledge, appreciate and love each person, regardless of physical proximity, regardless of where he or she was born or lives. St Francis felt himself a brother to the sun, the sea and the wind, yet he knew that he was even closer to those of his own flesh. Wherever he went he sowed seeds of peace, and walked alongside the poor, the abandoned, the infirm and the outcast, the least of his brothers and sisters. There is an episode in the life of St Francis that shows his openness of heart, which knew no bounds, and transcended differences of origin, nationality, colour or religion.

It was his visit to Sultan Mali-el-Kamil, in Egypt which entailed considerable hardship, given Francis’ poverty, his scarce resources, the great distances’ to be travelled, and their differences of language of language, culture and religion. The journey undertaken at the time of the Crusades, further demonstrated the breath and grandeur of his love which sought to embrace everyone. Francis’ fidelity to his Lord was commensurate with his love for his brothers and sisters. Unconcerned for the dangers and hardships involved Francis went to meet the Sultan with the same attitude that he instilled in his disciples: “if they found themselves among Saracens and other non believers, without renouncing their own identity, they were not to engage in arguments or disputes, but to be subject to every human creature for God’s sake”. In the contact of the time it was an extraordinary recommendation. We are impressed that some eight hundred years ago St Francis urged that all forms of hostility or conflict be avoided and that a humble and fraternal “subjection” be shown to those who did not share his faith. Francis did not wage a war of words aimed at imposing doctrines, he simply spread the love of God. He understood that God is love and those who abide in love abide in God”- (St John). In this way he became a father to all, and inspired the vision of a fraternal society. Indeed only a man who approaches others, not to draw them into his own life, but to help them become ever more fully themselves, can truly be a father” In the world of that time bristling with watch towers and defensive walls, cities were a theatre of brutal wars between powerful families, even as poverty was spreading throughout the countryside, yet there Francis was able to welcome true peace into his heart and free himself of the desire to wield power over others. He became one of the poor, and sought to live in harmony with all. Francis has inspired these pages. (To be continued).
